Frankfort Adopts Tax Levy; To Light Connecticut Hills

The Frankfort village board adopted its annual tax levy ordinance at its regular meeting Monday night and gave approval to a plan that will provide 13 more street lights in the Connecticut Hills section.

The levy this year is $22,175 which is about $600 less than that of last year, according to Village Attorney Albert H. Krusemark.

Total appropriations for the current fiscal year total $108,576. By applying the levy to this sum there is $86,401 remaining which must be raised from other sources.

The levy is made by applying the general corporate tax rate, the rate for garbage disposal and the police protection tax to the assessed valuation of the village. The assessed valuation is $4,440,182. The general corporate rate is .1738 cents per $100 assessed valuation and this is the maximum the village can charge without a referendum, Krusemark pointed out. The village is also asking the full rate of 10 cents a hundred for garbage collection and 12 cents per $100 for police protection.

If the village could make a 100 per cent collection of the amount levied it would receive approximately $17,400. As it is it hopes to get in about $15,000 thru these taxes, Krusemark said. The attorney said he believed the money derived from other sources (this includes the village share of the sales tax) would fall some $15,000 below the total listed in the levy ordinance. In all the village's receipts are likely to run around $20,000 below the appropriations.

This as it should be, the attorney added, pointed out that an appropriation ordinance always provided for more spending than the municipality's means allowed -- in case something happened so the money was forthcoming. Unless an appropriation is made expenditure cannot be made, he explained.

The levy is forwarded to the county clerk's office where taxes are extended.

Action was taken on the street lights for Connecticut Hills after a suggested layout for the system was given the board by the Public Service. The board had asked for a layout an estimate.

The proposed lights would have 295-watt incandescent lamps and the 13 will cost the village $55.25 a month, which covers installation, maintenance and electricity. There will be 13 poles installed and the locations agreed upon are: Elm and Wisconsin Willow and Colorado; Locust and Colorado; Locust and Michigan; Elm and Iowa; Hobby and Meadow; Linden and Meadow; Birchwood and Meadow; Birchwood and Illinois and Hawthorne; Dakota Court and Cottonwood; Hackberry and Dakota and Hackberry and village limits. There are lights now existing at Locust and the limits and Elm street and the village limits.

The board approved the proposal and the lights will be installed as soon as possible. Reports on opinions expressed by citizens on the use of a chemical in the water to keep the iron in suspension so rust does not settle out in washers and plumbing fixtures disclosed that more favored it than opposed it and so the village will continue to treat the water. The trustees pointed out, however, that the chemical did not soften water nor did it remove the iron -- it just suspends the rust.

A committee headed by Trustee Milton Subbert and including Police Chief Francis Simon to meet with the grade school board to determine what streets or street near the school should become a stop street. The school is thinking about the loading and unloading of school buses this year. The district is extended now with the addition of a portion of the former Weitendorf district and the school is now laying out bus routes.

And speaking of buses Village Attorney Krusemark was instructed to continue with his efforts to interest the South Suburban bus company in coming into Frankfort. Frankfort is now without any means of public transportation. People there would like to be able to travel to Joliet and Chicago Heights. South Suburban appears to be interested in coming as far west as Matteson, because of a shopping center there, but is less than lukewarm about going further west, the board was told.

Mayor George Sangmeister has been endeavoring to get the bus company to realize that all this area will be thickly populated within the next few years. A bus serving Frankfort, it was pointed out, could also serve Arbary Hills and Mokena.

GIANT SUNFLOWER grows in the garden at the home of the William C. Davidsons on 79th ave., Lincoln Estates. It is over 14 feet tall. No matter what angle one might take the picture there is foliage in the background so that the huge flower doesn't stand out as it would, for instance, if the photographer carried a backdrop. At the top of the picture is an arrow pointing to the blossom. The sunflowers seed themselves and come up each year of their own accord. And each year one of the plants goes in for size. Last year, the Davidsons said, they had a sunflower that topped 15 feet.

It's Fair Time Again

This is fair time.

Now there are world fairs, trade fairs, and various kinds of mammoth expositions that have been held or will be held but we are not referring to such when we say this is fair time.

We are talking about state and county fairs that will be held in August or early September in most of the states of the nation and draw millions of visitors.

In Illinois alone there are 103 county fairs will be held in addition to the State Fair at Springfield. Two neighboring fairs are on the list, one the Will County Fair at Peotone and one at Kankakee. This Kankakee county fair rates as the second largest, next to the Perry county fair which operates under the name of DuQuin State Fair.

The Hambleton harness race which will run at least three more years at DuQuin made that fair nationally known. Such is the attraction of that sulky classic that people come from all parts of the United States, Europe, South America, Canada and even Australia.

The rodeo offering at Kankakee is a big attraction there. The Peoria fair and the St. Clair county fair at Belleville also rate high in popular favor as does the one at Champaign, which dates back to 1852 and is one of the oldest in the state.

The first Illinois state fair was held at Springfield in 1853 but in the 40 years that followed the event was staged in 11 other locations, with Springfield finally selected as its permanent site. In the first year of the state fair the premiums totaled $944; in 1901 they were $34,000 and $151,000 in 1930. This year at Springfield the cash awards will exceed a million dollars.

In 1962 the county fairs of Illinois took in $3.4 million, received $1.3 million in state aid and paid out $2.3 million in premiums. There were approximately 291,000 competitive entries and the attendance was around the three million mark.

When one stops to consider that these fairs run only a few days the attendance figures are large indeed.

Fairs, like many other things, are having to face the problem of changes today. Some point out that competition by other interests and attractions as a result of a higher standard of living plus an increase in urbanization and sophistication necessitate further changes. Some fairs are adjusting to the change; some are not. Those that cannot or do not change may fold.

Fairs cover a wide field of interest including livestock, horticulture, arts, educational projects, racing, hobbies and entertainment. Town people may be concerned more with the display of manufacturers and while the major attraction for the farmer may be things agricultural he too is vitally interested in what the manufacturers have to offer.

Fairs go back into antiquity, so far as entertainment and trade are concerned. The agriculture fair, the forerunner of the state and county fairs of today, came into being in England about 200 years ago. The agriculture fair was born in an endeavor to aid farmers thru a difficult period thru the spread of information on methods to improve farming.

American farmers had difficulties too and some agriculture societies were formed but they were too exalted to attract the average working farmer.

The father of the county and state fair was Elkanah Watson. Back in 1810 he prevailed upon a group of farmers to hold a cattle show at Pittsfield, Mass. The idea was well received and Watson kept it going. States became interested and gave the movement impetus with monetary aid and the fair, as we know it, became as much a part of the American way of life as hot dogs and apple pie.

One of the things about fairs today, which is expected to serve as a stimulant, is the participation by the youngsters. In Will and Cook counties the 4-H groups have their own fairs, as well as participate in the county and state events. These fairs were run off just last week and were quite successful from all standpoints.

Thanks to the generosity of the late Fred Francis of New Lenox the 4-H clubs of Will county have their own fairgrounds. It is located on Francis road and an exhibition hall and some livestock barns have been built. Mr. Francis, who gave the land, was one of the original 4-H backers in Will county and for many years served as superintendent for the 4-H fair when it was held on the Peotone fairgrounds. Then it was a one day affair. Much later the fair was operated two days and now it is three days and three nights and it is becoming difficult to crowd all the events in on such a schedule.

The 4-H youngsters reach national competition at the International Livestock Show of Chicago while the Future Farmers make their bid for fame and fortune at the Royal in Kansas City but those two events do not take place until fall.

August is always fair time because the haying is finished, the small grains reaped and the corn harvest is many weeks off, so now is a good time travel about and see what's going on.

In closing we quote from an article on fairs in the Illinois Business Review, which sums up the situation:

"The fairs today still can utilize their important asset of combining community spirit, individual accomplishment, industry, business education, and just plain amusement."

Hint For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL
COOK COUNTY ASSOC.
FARM ADVISER

Don't believe that old saying about the weather. You can do something about it.

A few well-placed trees and other plants can lower sizzling summer time temperatures as much as 15 percent. Windows on either the east or the west side of the house often present a heat problem. Trees placed here will block the sun's heat rays. They may also provide shade for your family car or for the backyard patio. Often patios absorb heat - and make the area warmer - if they're not shaded.

Trees planted on the south-west areas of the lawn provide a certain amount of "air-conditioning" when summer breezes blow through the area. In addition shade from trees provides some psychological cooling. Pools of water give the same feeling.

In addition, vines on the house often absorb some of the heat that would otherwise come directly through the window. And if "stiff" breezes blow when the family is enjoying outdoor living, a windbreak will soften and channel breezes past the outdoor dining area. Planting time will soon be here. By placing trees and shrubs strategically, you can put summertime wind currents to work to cooling advantages.

Flies and picnic beetles can be a terrific nuisance to backyard picnickers if left uncontrolled. Sanitation will reduce the number of flies to a point where insecticides can control them.

Covered garbage cans with tight lids and solid bottoms will help to reduce fly numbers around the house. Since flies breed in any moist, decaying organic material, proper disposal of breeding material is the first big step in house fly control.

Use diazinon, ronnel or dimethoate sprays to control flies. Mix the chemical with water according to directions on the container. Spray liberally around the garbage can and adjacent areas, as well as on outside surfaces where flies roost.

Baits made with corn syrup combined with any of the three chemicals (diazinon, ronnel or dimethoate) or such insecticides as diphtherex, DDVP or dibrom may be used to attract and kill flies. Put some of the mixture into small containers, and place it where flies congregate. One insecticide, dimethoate, comes impregnated in red plastic bands about two inches wide and six feet long. These bands can be hung from support posts or rafters in the garage and will kill flies that land on them. Use baits and insecticides with extreme care so that children cannot reach them.

Reported cases of accidental poisoning among young children under age 12 have practically doubled since 1959. This is the word from the Illinois Department of Public Health.

In 1962 about 10,000 cases were reported by the 81 poison control centers in the state.

Red Cross To Give Course In Life Saving

Junior and senior life saving instruction will be offered at Inwood Park pool thru cooperation of Joliet Park District and Will county Red Cross.

The classes will begin Aug. 12 and end Aug. 23. Anyone interested may enroll by reporting to the instructors on the opening day. Hours will be from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., Mondays through Fridays.

Barbara Meifert will instruct the juniors and James Rickhoff will teach the seniors is 12 and for the seniors, 16.

This is the only time the instruction will be available at Inwood this season and probably will be the last opportunity for the class to be held anywhere in the county, spokesmen of the two organizations said.

All but a small number of these poisonings occurred in children under five years, with the highest percentage in the one-to-three year bracket.

As usual INTERNAL MEDICINES rank first, with aspirin products alone responsible for about one-third of all cases. Household preparations were second, and pesticides were third.

Safety specialist at the University of Illinois reminds us that children are our responsibility. We can prevent poisoning of these toddlers by keeping all toxic substances out of their reach.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Jefferson P. Throttlebottom, the freeloaders' freeloader, helped himself generously to my cigars as he lowered himself into the only comfortable chair in the office.

"Pleasant weather we are having," he said, using my lighter to fire a cigar, "although it does get a bit on the hot side if one gets out in the sun, rough on roofers, and that reminds me--do you have a bottle of cleaning fluid handy?"

Jeff was informed there was no cleaning fluid at hand.

"Don't tell me your are going to give a party for some confirmed canned heat tipplers," I exclaimed.

"I was just going to help my friend Harry," he answered, with reproach in his tone. "Harry has helped me at various times and I just wanted to reciprocate."

"Don't tell me Harry belts cleaning fluid?" I broke in. "No, no, no. Outside of milk and coffee and an occasional beer Harry doesn't drink anything but despite that he is a very nice guy. All of us have our peculiarities, and Harry's is that he doesn't care for a little nip."

"What gives with the cleaning fluid?" I interjected.

"Well, Jeff," went on, "you know that Harry is perhaps one of the comparatively few do-it-yourselfers that knows what he is doing and what to do to get it done."

"He had some time off last week and so he decided to patch a roof and paint the outside trim of an attic dormers. If you will recall we had some heavy rains and that was how he discovered the roof of his back porch was leaking. So up he got, removed a portion of the shingles and put in new."

"Then we had another rain and Harry found that while he had stopped the flood a few drops of water were still finding their way thru. He examined the new covering, shingle by shingle, but the leak eluded him. Then he removed a piece of the ceiling and with the aid of a strong flashlight and one of those reflectors the eye doctors use."

"His efforts were rewarded. He found a loose nail, ringed with a damp spot."

"I will go and get some roofing tar, and fix this such-and-such roof so that it will not leak a so-and-so drop," Harry announced, and hurried off. He came back carrying a bucket of tar and a bucket of paint.

"While I am up there," he explained, "I will further on up and paint that such-and-such dormer. But first I will make this so-and-so roof tight."

"With that he went up a ladder to the porch roof. The lids were on both buckets, Harry explaining that he didn't want any of the stuff to spill. Both lids were well covered inside, of course, so he put them on the porch roof sticky side up. He used the tar in a workmanlike manner and then shinnied up a short ladder to the main roof, which was quite steep, and hauled himself up alongside the dormer. He used a long rope that was fastened on the other side of the house with which he secured himself when he got himself in place."

"He was painting away, touching up some spots, when something flew past him. He paid no attention, thinking it was a big fly. Then came another and another."

"They weren't flies. They were bees. He reached up to slap on a brushful of paint and saw lot more bees. They were coming out of a hole along the strip. He discovered that he had painted over several of them and a bee just sticking his head out of the hole got some paint in the eyes. It made him angry. A lot of other bees appeared angry too."

"In the next minute or two Harry saw more bees than Custer saw Indians and was just as busy as was that dashing general. Let me tell you that the proverbial one-armed paper hanger with the hives had no problem compared with Harry. Here he was with a bucket of paint in one hand, a brushful of paint in the other, and only able to maintain his footing on the steep roof by means of the rope tied around his waist."

"He was swinging the brush in circles in an endeavor to keep the bees off and was scattering paint on his own roof, the house next door, his car, a couple of children who were shrieking with delight at what they apparently believed was a show, and some drops splattered the family cat, causing it to bound up the porch steps."

"At the same time Harry shouting for help. His wife and oldest boy came rushing out of the house. It was then that some of the bees hit Harry's ankles and one took him on the hand holding the bucket. Harry yelled and let go of the bucket. The porch roof got most of it but there was still enough left to spatter the sidewalk when it hit the ground. His wife and boy were spattered too. Let me say that Harry's wife deserves a lot of credit. She didn't waste time in discussing the situation. She dashed in the house, grabbed a big can of insect spray and the next instant the son was on his way to the scene of conflict."

"Working his way up until he was in short range the youth loosed a barrage of spray. Bees began dropping. Harry dropped the brush so he had both hands free to untie the rope around his waist and let himself down to the ladder. His son retreated with him but the spray attack had definitely broken up the assault waves of the bees."

"Harry stepped into the paint on the porch roof and his feet went out from under him. He sat down hard but he didn't sit in the paint. He sat down on the sticky side of the lid for the tar bucket."

"That is why I would like to pick up some cleaning fluid, I don't believe the garbage man would haul Harry's pants away unless they are cleaned up some."

Letters To The Editor

PRaise FOR DERWINSKI

Dear Sir: "Our Defense is in Our Own Hands. There is no final battle in the fight for Freedom. The struggle continues as long as there are enemies who seek to subvert our minds and destroy our ideals. Our enemies' strongest allies can be our indifference of spirit, weakness of will and compromise of principle. On Freedom's side, stand the enduring strength of our forefathers; a steadfast faith in our way of life and a firm resolve to defend it. Let our convictions remain strong and our purpose firm, so we may pass on to our children both the fruits of Freedom and the will to defend and preserve it."

(This was copied from an advertisement of The American Fore Loyalty Group, a combine of insurance companies)

We have lost, in recent years, some very CONSERVATIVE members of congress. These wonderful men did their best to preserve our freedom for us. In Illinois, two of these retired. Congresswoman Margaret Stitt Church and Congressman Noah Mason during their careers as such established records of above 90% and 100% respectively, on a conservative basis.

As of this date, we have from our state, three congressmen, Hoffman, Collier and Derwinski, who have consistently voted in like manner. You can depend upon these PATRIOTS, to continue, to protect the welfare of The United States and your FREEDOM.

We, in the 4th congressional district of Illinois, can rest assured that Congressman Derwinski will welcome the opinions of his constituents and temper them with his most intellectually sound judgment. Ed is a young man, ambitious, hard working and possesses the attributes which are found in few modern day political figures. During his college days, he majored in history. He learned well, the lessons found there-in. Every great Power, since the beginning of time, eventually fell because of forces from outside or from corruption within, accompanied by high taxes.

and one took him on the hand holding the bucket. Harry yelled and let go of the bucket. The porch roof got most of it but there was still enough left to spatter the sidewalk when it hit the ground. His wife and boy were spattered too. Let me say that Harry's wife deserves a lot of credit. She didn't waste time in discussing the situation. She dashed in the house, grabbed a big can of insect spray and the next instant the son was on his way to the scene of conflict."

"Working his way up until he was in short range the youth loosed a barrage of spray. Bees began dropping. Harry dropped the brush so he had both hands free to untie the rope around his waist and let himself down to the ladder. His son retreated with him but the spray attack had definitely broken up the assault waves of the bees."

"Harry stepped into the paint on the porch roof and his feet went out from under him. He sat down hard but he didn't sit in the paint. He sat down on the sticky side of the lid for the tar bucket."

"That is why I would like to pick up some cleaning fluid, I don't believe the garbage man would haul Harry's pants away unless they are cleaned up some."

"Well, so long, son, be careful now if you try to do any work around the house."

We are BLESSED to have such a man to represent us, who is always fighting to prevent our downfall which can come from the last two reasons, only. We have never lost a war, that is until the Korean. This and the other subsequent skirmishes have been lost due to corruption. Our greatest losses have been at Conference tables. Unless, we are more careful in choosing our leaders, corruption within, and not arms, will bring about the loss of our way of life.

Let us pray, that we can select more men of the same calibre as Congressman Derwinski. He and others like him, can insure us against the loss of OUR GREAT COUNTRY, OUR FREEDOM and OUR LIVES.

Patriotically yours,

Why not try a fall garden? Many homeowners may enjoy working in a fall garden, as well as having the added fresh vegetables it provides late in the season. Some vegetables - turnips and Chinese cabbage - are adapted only to cool fall weather. But such favorites as bibb lettuce, radishes, spinach, summer squash, cucumbers and green beans often yield higher quality produce in fall gardens than in the spring. They develop more slowly under fall conditions, producing tender vegetables with a high vitamin content. May of the problems that spring gardeners face - low fertility, weeds, insects, diseases and moisture shortages - also occur in the fall. However, since the soil was worked in the spring, the gardener can now give it a boost by raking in about one pound of 10-10-10 or similar analysis fertilizer per 100 square feet. That's about enough to fill one small coffee can.

About 80 to 90 percent of this year's weed crop has already germinated. So if weeds are killed when they are small, the fall garden usually stays weed-free the rest of the season. Moisture as well as insect and disease problems may need more attention in the fall garden than in the spring. Dusting or spraying for insects and diseases is essential. Both usually build up over the summer. And with the fall months come frequently evening dews, which are beneficial to garden diseases. Several good multi-purpose sprays or dusts are available, or the gardener can safely use Sevin to control most garden insects and maneb or zineb for diseases. For detailed information on garden management, ask us for Circular 816, "Illinois Garden Guide".

Plum beetles, as they are called, are now emerging and will soon be a nuisance in many areas. Areas that were dry in May should have fewer beetles than normal, while areas having moderate moisture or above should be more heavily infested. These beetles are about 1/4 inch long, shiny black, and have four yellow spots on their backs. They are attracted to the odor of food. They get into the food at picnics and cook-outs. They swarm onto overripe or injured fruits and vegetables in gardens. Keep gardens and berry patches free of overripe and rotting fruits and vegetables. Preventing injury from other insects will help to reduce the numbers of these pests on vegetables and fruit farms. Sprays of sevin, diazinon or malathion help to control them, but it may be necessary to make repeated applications as beetles migrate into the area. Follow the labels on containers for rate of applications and interval between treatment and harvest. An O.I. percent pyrethrin spray can be used as a quick knockdown spray at picnics or cook-outs.

Virtually every county in Illinois has among its residents scores of men and women who spent part of their youth working on 4-H Club projects. Some live on farms, others in small towns or cities. Yet all have a common bond; they grew up in the 4-H tradition of service to others, and "learned by doing" skills that they find useful today. Many have continued to work with youth of have helped to advance 4-H in various ways. Their earnest support does not go unnoticed. The county has an opportunity to honor two former 4-H'ers for giving a helping hand to the local club program or for working in the best interest of the community, state and nation. Nominated by friends and neighbors, the finalists are selected by the Extension Service. Do you know of someone whom you would like to nominate? Let us know. Among the winners last year were Mrs. Gerald Hay and Paul Glaske of Park Forest.

NI-Gas Has Good Year

Northern Illinois Gas Co., in its quarterly statement to stockholders, reported a nine per cent increase in consolidated revenues and earnings for the 12 months ended June 30, 1963, as compared with the same period a year ago.

Revenues totaled almost $178 million and earnings were $2.99 a share for the most recent period. Revenues and earnings were $163 million and $2.75 respectively, for the 12 months ended June 30, 1962.

Marvin Chandler, NI-Gas president, pointed out that earnings for the 12 months ended June 30 generally exceed earnings for the calendar year.

He said the company plans to initiate natural gas service to 23 additional communities before the end of the year, nine of which are located in the territory served by Allied Gas Company, the utility's subsidiary.

The report noted that consolidated income and earnings for 1962 have been restated to reflect the inclusion of Allied Gas Co., beginning Jan. 1, 1962, and the increase in the depreciation provision made in September, 1962, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1962.

Farmers' Outlook Letter

(DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS)
By L. H. SIMERL

There are a couple of good reasons for expecting prices of feeder cattle to be lower this fall than in 1962: (1) The supply will be larger, and (2) the demand may be weaker.

There should be a record number of both yearlings and calves this fall. This possibility is indicated by a study of the USDA figures for cattle on farms and ranches and on feed.

MORE YEARLINGS. As of last January 1, the number of steers and heifers (over one year old) and calves was estimated at 43.2 million head. This was an increase of 1,758,000 from the year before. Around one million of this increase have appeared in feedlots, leaving some 750,000 head of yearlings yet to be put into feedlots. This additional number points to an increase of 7 to 8 percent in the number of yearlings on hand, but not in feedlots.

MORE CALVES, TOO. In July the USDA estimated the 1963 calf crop at 41.8 million head. Although this number is only 2 percent more than in 1962, the percentage increase for beef calves is more than 2 percent. The number of beef cows on hand January 1 was up 6 percent from a year earlier, while the number of dairy cows was down 2 percent.

Then, too, fewer calves have been slaughtered this year than in 1962. Slaughter for the first five months totaled 2,815,000 head, down 8 percent from a year earlier. It seems likely that slaughter may be down at least 7 percent for all of this year. If so, we should have around 24.6 million calves on hand January 1, some 6 percent more than at the beginning of this year.

IMPORTS OF CATTLE. These figures do not include possible changes in supplies of stockers and feeders brought in from Canada and Mexico.

The magazine states that there is likely to be a continued rise in investment in new plant and equipment. They report almost all surveys indicating this rise is business investment.

It is not difficult to find predictions of good business to come and especially in business spending for plant and equipment. Analysts point out that business investment in new plant and equipment has been comparatively small for a number of years but the need for new plant and equipment is insistent and must be met.

A special Standard & Poor Investment bulletin just received, states that powerful forces are pushing the nations economy to new peaks in the months just ahead.

The bulletin shows chart evidence of the fact that unit labor costs decline when volume of production rises and profit margins widen. Profit trend is now rising.

The industries noted and with comment are as follows:

COMPUTERS - rapidly becoming indispensable to automated industry and business controls as to inventories, etc. New applications multiplying.

COSMETICS - especially favored by larger disposable personal incomes and expected 30 per cent rise in age groups which are greatest users.

ELECTRONIC - equipment rapidly expanding in use and significant profit possibilities, particularly in communications.

TEXT BOOK PUBLISHING - seems headed for new highs due to population explosion and need for new texts on expanding new subjects.

LIFE INSURANCE - favored by continued growth of premium volume with lowering mortality rate and investment earnings increases.

ALUMINUM - expect important growth rate in this metal especially in new uses in building industry.

AIR TRANSPORT - jet integration expenses out of the way and large potential for new customers.

PACKAGING - demand increasing and growth rate measurably faster than the general economy.

The U.S. News & World Report of last week had as its lead article, "How to Handle Your Money Now - What to Do and What to Avoid". The article is a question and answer interview with Benjamin Graham, a well known investment analyst.

A summary of the whole interview would be too long for this space. However, first suggestion is to have adequate insurance and cash reserve for emergencies; second, divide funds into common stock, bonds, and savings accounts; third keep at least 25 per cent in common stocks - to share in growth of industry and hedge against inflation.

He also suggests purchase of Mutual Funds to secure expert handling of investments.

Business & Finance

The number brought in last year was 1,272,000. From January to May of this year, the number was 462,000, or 7 percent less than in the first five months last year.

WEAKER DEMAND. The demand for replacement cattle was unusually strong last fall because cattle feeders had had an unusually profitable year. Furthermore, the market for fed cattle rose strongly from June to November, the principal cattle-buying season.

The present situation has a different background. Prices for fed cattle dropped sharply from last November to May. Many farmers lost heavily, especially on cattle sold during the second quarter. Most of them will be back for more cattle this fall, but they will be more cautious buyers than they were a year ago.

The securities market received considerable good news as to second quarter earnings during the past ten days and prices rallied. Business news is expected to be favorable for the balance of the year and into 1964.

Automobile productions for 1963 model year is reported as having set another new high exceeding that of 1955. Some auto people express opinion 1964 will be another boom year. This prediction is not general.

The U.S. News & World Report notes that much of the reduction in inventory was in steel. The Commerce Department reports that inventory building this year has been considerably smaller than last year. The magazine points out that this is healthy and removes the threat of heavy liquidation and a down turn in general activity.

I Am Your Candidate For Governor: Carpentier

While a wildly enthusiastic crowd cheered, Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier announced that he would campaign for the post of Governor in 1964.

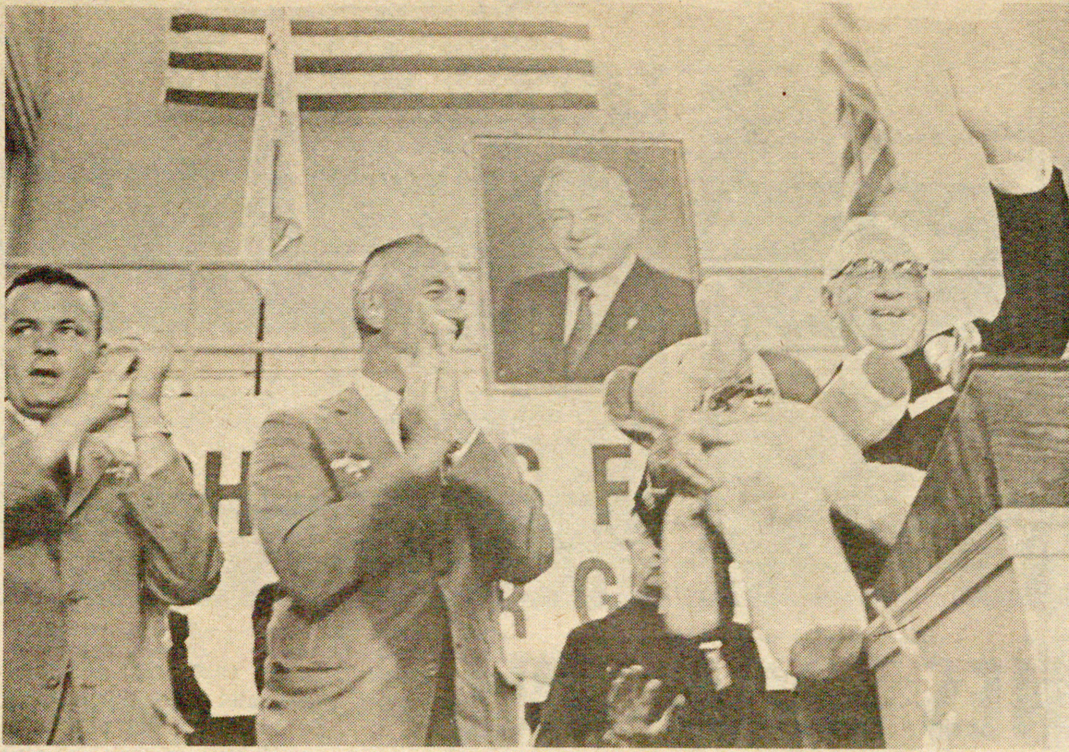

Secretary Carpentier's announcement came at ceremonies in his home town of East Moline on Sunday. Nearly 9,000 Republicans, including many dignitaries, traveled from the four corners of the state for Carpentier's pronouncement of candidacy.

In announcing that he would seek election, Secretary Carpentier joins two other avowed Republican candidates, Charles Percy and Hayes Robertson.

Thus far, there has been no mention in Democratic circles except incumbent Governor, Otto Kerner. Kerner has stated that he will seek a second term.

The festivities at East Moline got underway at 9 a.m. Sunday morning as Secretary Carpentier met the county chairmen from thruout the state. Shortly after noon, the procession to East Moline High School, where the announcement was made, began. The parade was headed by a pair of elephants brought to Moline from the Ringling Brothers circus for the occasion.

On hand in the auditorium were some 7,500 people. Outside, another 1,500 listened to

SCENES FROM WILL COUNTY 4-H FAIR

EVENING PERFORMANCES also marked the Will County 4-H fair. This picture was taken at the horse show, an event that not only brought the 4-H'ers back in numbers after dinner, but also drew many adult visitors.

FLORAL DISPLAYS and handicraft exhibits were an important part of the Will County 4-H fair and were on display in the large exhibition hall. Directly above is an exhibit of work in ceramic. Incidentally the young lady in the foreground is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Broderick, of Homer township. (Mr. Broderick, editor - in chief of the Graphic Newspapers took all these pictures.) Above, at the left are some of the floral arrangements for table and room decoration and in the lower left picture are some ideas for Christmas. . and Christmas is not too far off.

MORE THAN 700 girls competed in the style show at the Will County 4-H fair and displayed the creations they had either made or purchased. The young lady in checks is answering a few questions asked by the judges.

A HORSESHOW is not all riding. The horse itself comes in for quite a bit of attention. It is judged against certain standards and when led in for what is known as "halter classes" the horse is subjected to quite an examination by the judge.

Boy Scouts Will Conduct Paper Drive On Saturday

MRS. EDWARD HOVI
479-5740

The Summit Hill Boy Scout Troop Number 10 are home again after a week at the Boy Scout camp at Morris.

Their regular monthly newspaper drive will be held this Saturday, Aug. 10.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the collection is asked to have their donations of newspaper, magazines, cardboard, or other easily transportable scrap, placed either at the garage door or at the front door, NOT at the curb before 9 a.m. Saturday.

The First Nighters will hold their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Smith of 9528 West Rosewood Lane tonight, (Thursday) at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Sheehan of 19344 South Oak Street became the parents of their first son recently. He was born at St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, July 16. He weighed six pounds eight ounces at birth. The little newcomer was named Corey Blane.

He has one sister Erika, who is two years old.

Gwyn Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook of 9424 West Pine Avenue, celebrated her eighth birthday with a children's party. The party consisted of an outdoor cook-out supper in the Cook's back yard.

After eating the children played games. Attending were: Four of the Sheedy children, Paula, Mark, Kieran, and Pat Sheedy; Bruz May; Harry Kronick; Terry Rogal; Marcella Heim; and Karen Andrews, a girl friend of Gwyn's who came in from Chicago for the party.

After the closing of the Arbury Hills summer session, the women of the kindergarten organization were scheduled to clean and refinish the chairs used by the children in preparation for the up-coming Fall Session which is due to open next month at the school. The date will correspond with the regular opening of the grammar school.

The Bingo club will meet for its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Elinor Scott of 9412 West Birch, ave., next Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock. This will be the first meeting held on the new meeting night, so members, don't get your dates mixed up.

The summer session of the kindergarten, held at the school, closed last Friday with a special program for the mothers. There were also a smattering of fathers and little sisters and brothers.

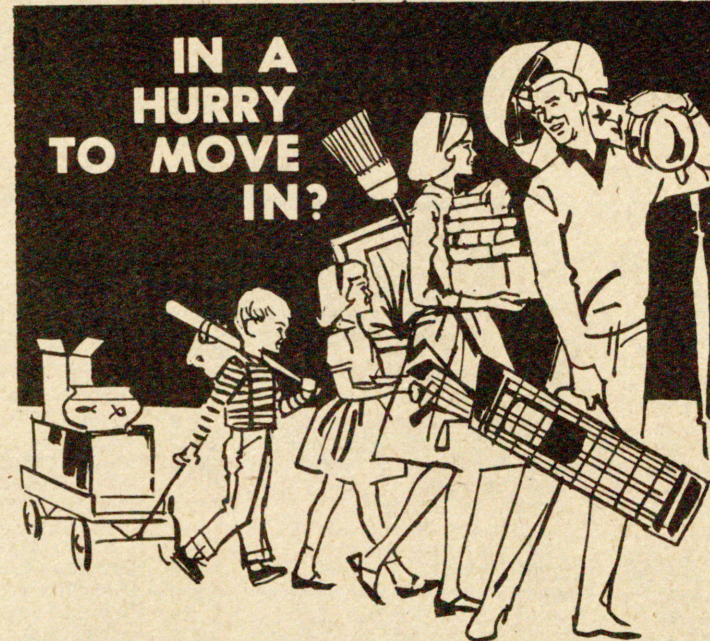

The kindergarten children presented a sampling of their learning program at the kindergarten.

Included in the program were two skits, one about the three bears, and the second was about the little red hen and the wheat. The children sang their songs and recited some of their finger plays as individual recitations.

Following the entertainment Mrs. Howard, their teacher presented each student with a certificate of promotion to first grade and a report sheet on his progress in kindergarten. The program was concluded by the serving of refreshments. The cookies were donated by Mrs. Gerry O'Neill and Mrs.

Marion Wallis. The punch was brought and served by Mrs. Joan Cumbee and Mrs. Jean Dornself. An enjoyable hour was had by everyone present. The thanks of the mothers, the children, and the kindergarten organization go with Mrs. Howard and wish her well in her next endeavor.

Puffer Stresses Need For More Jr. Colleges

(CNS) - A campaign to increase junior colleges in the suburban area of Cook County was promissed by Dr. Noble J. Puffer, as he was sworn in to his seventh term as Cook county superintendent of schools.

After County Clerk Edward J. Barrett administered the oath of office, the superintendent quickly pointed out that the four existing junior colleges in suburban Cook county are "far from adequate in providing educational opportunities for thousands of young people who must continue to live at home and work on the side if they are to get a higher education."

Despite a recent referendum in southern Cook county in which voters rejected a proposal for the creation of new junior colleges in the area, Dr. Puffer said he would continue his efforts to encourage new junior colleges in not only southern Cook county, but all parts of the county.

"Despite this vote against a new junior college in southern Cook county, the need is still there," Dr. Puffer said. He continued by saying that one and realistic to start with then there is no room between cost and profit for discounts. If there is, then the article was overpriced in the beginning.

"As far as sales are concerned, aside from once a year floor sample clearance sales, they usually are just another form of discount. Again the merchandise was overpriced in the beginning or actually not worth the price from a value and quality standpoint."

"Consequently, merchandise become old and soiled and so begins warehouse sales, president's sales, Monday sales, Tuesday sales and so on and so on."

"With our low operating cost principle we will be able to offer quality that customers expect, values they demand and service above reproach."

of the objectives of his new term would be to carry on "a public educational program to point up the need for creating new junior college districts."
